POPULATION AND DWELLINGS IN LOCAL GOVERNMENT AREAS

SOUTH AUSTRALIA

30 JUNE 1968

SCOPE This bulletin shows the area, number of private dwellings, and population, in each local government area and statistical division in South Australia at the Census, 30 June 1966 and estimates as at 30 June 1968.

Population figures include full-blood Aborigines. Reporting at the 1966 Census was insufficiently precise to enable a reliable dissection of full-blood and half-blood Aborigines to be made, and consequently, the difference between inclusive and exclusive figures (published elsewhere) should not be taken as a valid measure of the Aboriginal population. Census information regarding Aborigines is to be found in a special census publication "The Aboriginal Population (Revised Statement)" issued by the Commonwealth Statistician on 27 November 1967.

The estimated population of South Australia in total is based on the 1966 Census figure, subsequent natural increase and recorded net overseas and interstate migration. Net interstate migration figures are based on recorded transfers of residence under child endowment and Commonwealth electoral procedures. Holiday, business and other short-term movement between States is omitted.

Estimates of private dwellings in local government areas have been derived from results of the 1966 Census, and recorded particulars of subsequent completions, conversions and demolitions. Local government area population estimates are based on these dwellings estimates, with allowances being made for changes believed to have taken place in numbers of unoccupied dwellings, in occupancy ratios for existing dwellings and in the number of occupants of major hostels and camps.

Generally, estimates of local government area populations have been rounded to the nearest hundred persons (Adelaide Statistical Division), and to the nearest fifty (all other local government areas). In all local government areas estimated numbers of private dwellings have been rounded to the nearest ten. Some minor changes in population figures shown since the Census, therefore, may be the result of rounding.

The statistics given in this bulletin are based on incomplete information, and therefore intercensal estimates of both population and dwellings are subject to revision after the next census.

COMMENT It is estimated that in the six months ended 30 June 1968 the State population increased by 6,735 persons (0.60%).

The population of the Adelaide Statistical Division increased by approximately 5,000 persons, the largest estimated increases for individual local government areas being 1,100 in each of Tea Tree Gully City, Noarlunga and Munno Para District Councils, and 1,000 in Salisbury City.

In areas outside the Adelaide Statistical Division, the greatest increase was an estimated 1,050 persons in the City of Whyalla.

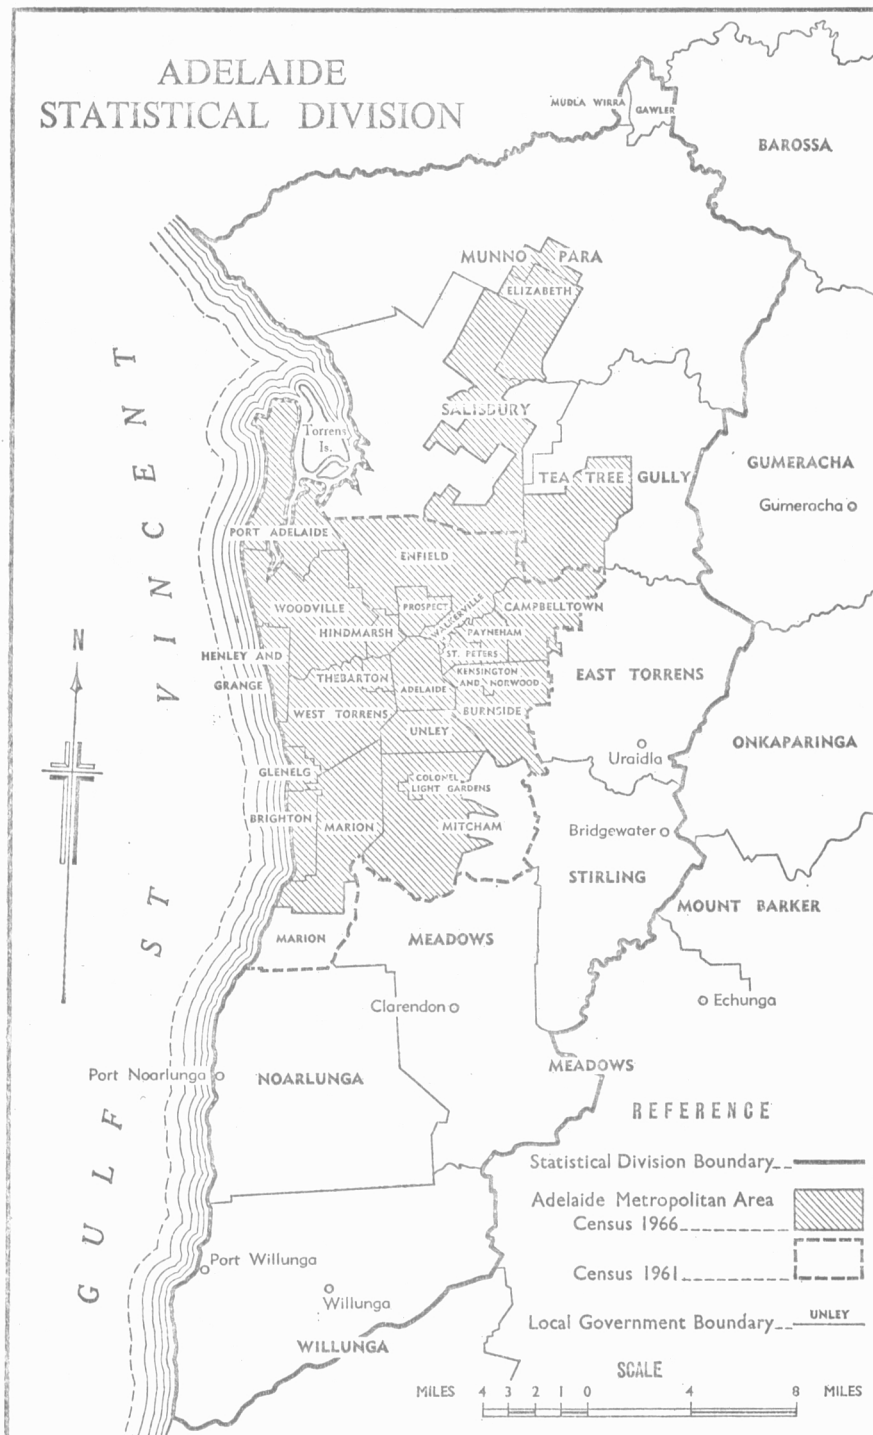

METROPOLITAN AREA At the 1966 Census new methods were introduced for the delimitation of metropolitan and certain other urban areas. The basic criterion used is population density as applied to Collectors Districts (the smallest geographical units available). A Collectors District with a population density of 500 or more persons per square mile is defined as urban. Contiguous areas with special functions, such as airports, sporting areas and industrial areas which do not meet the density criterion qualify as urban under certain circumstances.

As urbanisation proceeds, the boundary will be moved outwards to encompass peripheral development.

The Adelaide Metropolitan Area, defined according to the above criteria, currently contains nearly all of the metropolitan area as defined at the 1961 Census, and in addition, includes the City of Elizabeth, large portions of Salisbury and Tea Tree Gully Cities, and small parts of East Torrens and Munno Para District Councils (see map below).
